Rana Abdelhamid is a Democrat running for Congress for New York's 12th district. Rana is an award-winning nonprofit founder, activist, and community organizer. She was born and raised in Queens and attended New York City public schools. For the past ten years, Rana has organized for economic, gender, and racial justice, and she is committed to bringing this fight to Congress. Rana's commitment and skilled work as an activist and organizer has been recognized with a Leo Nevas youth activism award and when she was elected as the youngest ever board member of Amnesty International USA.