

Born and raised in Morocco. Completed a Ph.D. in Apartheid studies in the UK. Joined BBC World Service radio in London where I worked as a producer, anchor, and journalism trainer before moving to Boston, USA, where I joined The World, a co-production of the BBC, Public Radio, and WGBH. Later joined AllAfrica.com, the world's largest provider of African news and analysis then became a correspondent for Aljazeera Arabic TV. Currently head of Aljazeera's offices in the Americas and host of Min Washington, weekly current issues show on Al Jazeera Arabic. Frequent speakers on US-Arab issues and guests on US media.